CB fell hot and hard for the curvaceous Salons, and continuing exposure has done nothing to dull the infatuation. Having lived with them at home I can see his point. Big and hungry (the looks do grow on you – honest) Revel's statement speakers have the bandwidth, quality and refinement, mixed with plenty of old style muscle, to trouble flagship speakers at many times their price. Astonishingly well behaved low frequencies delivered crushing weight, power and definition, even in my smallish listening room, while genuinely awesome levels were served up with aplomb, the amps giving up way before the speakers showed any signs of distress. It's just as well for CB's neighbors that his evil plot to combine the Salons with the Bryston 14B never reached fruition. They only live a short half mile away! Much, much more than just a LOUD speaker, the Salons have it all – as long as you have the power they need.
